Desert Sun May Figure In Ike Retirement Plans

Palm Springs, Calif. (P)—President Eisenhower, beaming happily after a round of golf and a brief but unsuccessful fling as a trout fisherman, indicated Sunday that he may make this desert resort a favorite holiday spot when he retires next year.

After shooting 18 holes—last golfing round of his Southern California holiday—the President told a group of about 50 spectators:

"I hope to be back in just about a year." He leaves Monday.

The statement was a broad hint that the President intends to spend part of his winters in this sunny resort after he leaves the White House.

The President's promise to return tied in with persistent rumors that he plans to buy property in the Palm Springs area and perhaps build a winter home. The rumors have been denied repeatedly by James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary.

The President began his day with an early breakfast at the home of his host, Washington businessman George E. Allen at nearby La Quinta.

Trout Won't Bite
After golfing, the President toured the La Quinta Country Club course in a golf cart and tried his hand at fishing in one of the club's 3 trout-stocked lakes.

The President dangled a pole baited with cheese for several minutes, but with no luck.

End Resistance Today, Army Warns Insurgents

Troops Massed At Barricades, Block Civilians

Algiers (UPI)—The army Sunday night issued an ultimatum to 2,000 hard-core insurgents to lay down their arms by Monday afternoon and end their revolt against President Charles de Gaulle.

Stung by casualties, including 5 paratroopers dead in a bomb blast, the army sent combat troops to wall off the insurgent blockade. Rifle-swinging soldiers smashed back attempts by thousands of civilians to break through the army lines and join the insurrectionists behind the barricades.

The army promised it would make no frontal assault Sunday night on the barricades. But it warned the 2,000 home guardsmen who are the core of the uprising to quit and return to "normal professions" by 4 p.m. Monday.

Gen. Jean Crepin, commanding government forces, did not say what would happen if the ultimatum was rejected. This served to heighten tension and insurgent leaders began broadcasting denials that morale was sagging behind the barricades.

Almost 200 insurgents, apparently believing their cause was lost, deserted the barricades and joined the army forces.

Some 5,000 troops swarmed into the square before the insurgent barricade to seal it off and prevent civilian reinforcements from getting through.

Thousands of settlers, summoned by repeated appeals from the barricaded anti-Gaullists, tried to push through the ranks of troops. At one point, the troops were forcing back as many

2ND RUSS SHOT TOLD IN PACIFIC

Washington (UPI)—Russia apparently fired another of its giant test missiles nearly a third of the way around the world Sunday.

The defense department reported that the crew of a Navy plane spotted an object entering the atmosphere and falling into a Pacific area set aside by the Russians for rocket testing.

It was "presumed," the department said, that the object was a rocket similar to the one with which the Russians opened their Pacific test program Jan. 20.

There was no official word from the Kremlin to back up the report. But informed sources in Moscow indicated there was a strong possibility the Defense Department's assumption was correct.

LIGHT SNOW REPORTED IN STATE'S WEST

Light snow was reported early Monday at North Platte, Imperial, Sidney and McCook, as the Weather Bureau forecast scattered light snow for the extreme south central areas for later in the day.

Cloudy skies are expected to cover most of the state, with colder temperatures. Predicted are highs ranging from the upper 20s in the extreme northeast to the 30s elsewhere.

Sunday the mercury climbed to 41 at Lincoln after an early morning low of 25 degrees. Partly cloudy skies were reported over most of the state with Kearney blanketed by fog much of the day.

rangers and civilian volunteers joined the hunt, aided by Army helicopters from nearby Ft. Ord and the famed Calo bloodhounds, led by Russ Cone of Los Gatos, Calif.

Officers said Pauling had walked onto the slope shortly after leaving his nearby cabin Saturday, then realized he couldn't return across the treacherous terrain.

"I was afraid to move," Pauling told his rescuers. "I decided to just wait it out. I knew I would be found in time."

Wall-Scaling Burglar Gets $1,200

'Professional' Blamed For Fairbury Drugstore Breakin

By Dean Terill
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Fairbury — An agile burglar with a remarkable flair for wall-scaling made off with an estimated $1,200 in cash from Lindersmith Drug Co. Saturday night.

Police Chief Joe Cook said the thief, believed operating alone, not only climbed down a 16-foot inside wall to gain entrance but chose the same hazardous route for his exit. He even rejected a nearby ladder for the ascent back to the 14 by 23 inch hole he had hacked in the ceiling.

Besides the money stolen, a $1,700 cash register was smashed by the intruder. He also punched a safe and opened two small cash boxes. Some $60 in silver was left, apparently because of the climbing handicap it would impose, and no checks were stolen.

Sam Lindersmith, store owner, said no narcotics were taken despite the fact an obvious search was made for them. The only stock items believed missing were some bottles of strychnine, apparently mistaken for narcotics.

The burglary was believed to be the work of professionals, Chief Cook terming it "the cleanest job I ever saw." Nineteen holes had been drilled in the top floor to start the small opening.

Lindersmith said the store must have been cased carefully in advance, however, because of the hole's advantageous location and the thief's apparent knowledge that the upstairs is unoccupied.

An upstairs window was broken for entrance to the building, two brick walls being scaled first to get on the roof.

State Rural Electric Session Opens Monday

... 140 Already Registered

By Don Walton

Nearly 140 persons registered Sunday for the 24th annual meeting of the Nebraska Rural Electric Assn., to be held in Lincoln through Tuesday.

The NRECA opens its general session at 9:30 a.m. Monday at the Lincoln Hotel.

More than 500 persons are expected to participate in the day-long session.

Sunday's meetings featured committee sessions and an executive board discussion.

Early-arriving delegates heard an evening discussion on the 5% tax on electric sales in which a number of attorneys challenged the constitutionality of the new law's retroactive features.

The resolutions and by-laws committee and the legislative committee met, with no report scheduled until later in the convention.

The former group meets again Monday morning.

Following a welcome by Chamber of Commerce President William Gold II and various reports, the general session will move into a morning job training and safety program.

Ralph Foreman, deputy administrator of the REA in Washington, will address the noon luncheon.

The afternoon session features an address by Gov. Ralph Brooks.

Yvonne Young of Sargent, Miss Rural Electrification of America, and Virginia Olson of Sargent, Miss Nebraska Rural Electrification, will be presented at the evening banquet.

George Dempster of Knoxville, Tenn., will address the dinner meeting.

Tuesday's session includes election of officers, a progress report, resolutions and legislative reports and an address by Clyde Ellis, of Washington, NRECA general manager.

Flames Destroy Hotel

... IN OMAHA

Omaha (P)—A spectacular fire, which raged out of control for more than two hours Sunday afternoon, destroyed the Chicago Hotel on the north end of the Omaha business district.

No estimate of the loss was immediately available. The structure housed 26 apartments and room units.

Fire Chief Eugene Fields said all residents of the old, 3 and one-half story brick hotel had been accounted for.

One resident, for a time unaccounted for, was found after he had crawled nearly to safety through the dense smoke that blanketed the area. A woman was carried to safety by firemen.

Spread Rapidly

Fields said the fire apparently started in a basement apartment of the building and spread rapidly to the upper floors. The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

The two-alarm blaze brought out about 20 pieces of fire-fighting equipment. After about two hours, the blaze appeared under control, only to flare up again on the third floor.

Three firemen were overcome by smoke, but a spokesman said none was in serious condition.

The Midland Hotel, located to the west, was threatened, but an alley and firemen kept the blaze from spreading. To the east, an electrical firm was saved because of an alley separating it from the inferno.

Chief Fields said 34 persons lived in the apartment hotel.

James L. Pierce, 70, who was trapped in his 3rd floor apartment by dense smoke, said he waited near an open window until firemen could rescue him.

Not Much Choice

"I didn't have much choice but to just wait," he said. "I knew they'd come up and get me."

Pierce and all other residents lost all of their possessions.

The fire was discovered by the building manager, Mrs. Elizabeth Saroda, who occupies a first floor apartment.

David C. Fogel, owner of the building, said the structure was in the process of being remodeled and that about $100,000 already had been spent on the renovation job.

Fogel, who had flown by private plane to Denison, Iowa, said "When I got a telephone call of the fire, we flew right back. It was an unusual and terrible experience. I could see the flames from the roof."

'Big' Moment Disturbed By Stork's Visit

Mrs. LaVelle Krueger, 1912 N. 70th, waited a long time for husband Dale to receive his Bachelor of Science degree in Agriculture from Nebraska.

A visit from the stork was scheduled two weeks in advance of commencement Saturday.

But new babies are undependable. The arrival of David William at 6 a.m. Saturday in Bryan Memorial Hospital prevented Mrs. Krueger from seeing Dale receive his sheepskin. It was the Krueger's second child.

Looting Plagues Towns In Tuttle Creek Area

By Dean Terill

Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Randolph, Kan. — As if the evacuating residents of the Big Blue River valley don't have enough grief, a severe wave of vandalism has been adding to their woes.

"To keep awake I gave a little lecture to the surf on the nature of chemical bonds. I recited the periodic table of elements. And when I thought I had run out of material, I ran over Mohs scale of hardening minerals and counted in some languages I know—French, German and Italian."

much the same in Randolph, Stockdale, Garrison, Cleburne, Irving and Bigelow, as well as on farms along the valley.

"These thieves are worse than any Jesse James gang," remarked H. C. Beckman, Randolph mayor. "We think it's mostly people outside the valley who are responsible."

Officials claim the looters take over almost from the hour a family moves out its furniture. A newly finished kitchen was recently stripped of $1,100 worth of cabinets, telephones have been ripped from the walls and furnaces have been carted away.

Three complete bathroom sets were neatly removed from the little town of Irving on a recent Sunday afternoon. A sheet metal farm building disappeared the same night it had been disassembled and stacked up for moving from Randolph.

Although much of the stealing is done openly in daylight, thieves have an advantage in that the area is crawling with strangers. Houses are continually being salvaged by honest purchasers, many successful bidders on the property from other towns.

"You can see them taking the stuff, but you don't know what they bought it for the government," said Fred Vallier, Irving telephone exchange manager. Residents say that Sunday afternoon invasions have become commonplace, with thoughtless ordinary citizens then being among the worst offenders. Apparently guided by a "finders, keepers" principle, they dig up flowers, shrubs and even small trees. Many go through vacant houses in search of loot.

There is the oft-repeated story of an acting marshal in one of the towns who was approached by a stranger and asked to help load a hot water heater. He obliged, then learned later he had been an accessory to its theft.

Hereford Group Sets Special Celebration

... THOMPSON, MOUSEL TO BE CITED

By Glenn Kreuscher
Staff Farm Writer

The 50th anniversary will be celebrated by the Old Reliable Hereford Assn. at Grand Island Feb. 4.

This is one of the oldest

Hereford organizations in the United States, livestockmen claim.

R. D. Mousel Sr. of Cambridge, one of the organizers tells about the formation of the group:

"Fifty years ago while returning from a meeting in Lincoln in the company of E. E. Youngs of Lexington, the feasibility of organizing a Nebraska Hereford Assn. was discussed.

Letters Helped

"Letters were mailed to the 42 Hereford breeders in the state and at a following meeting we organized the association."

The Assn. has been active and has held an annual meeting each year since 1910. In 1914 the Assn. started holding sales and have held one every year since and some years 3 sales a year have been conducted.

Members recall many top cattle passing through the sales of this Assn. One of the most renowned was a bull calf named Ardmore that was champion bull of America in 1917 and later sold for $31,000.

All sales have been held in Grand Island, with the exception of a sale held at Hastings in 1921.

Rat Day was a success for the 50 mile area south of Lincoln that cooperated with the Salt Valley Grange, according to Emory Nelson, Lancaster county extension agent.

"We were more than satisfied with the kill from the Jan. 19 poisoning and are enthused with the results," Nelson said.

Nelson reports the Waverly Grange will conduct a similar program on Feb. 19 with an area of 100 square miles cooperating.

The Waverly FFA Chapter will package the poison.

The 48th annual Feeders

Day will be held on the College of Agriculture campus April 22, Dr. Robert M. Koch, chairman Department of Animal Husbandry, reports.

County extension agents and crop specialists are stressing the importance of taking soil samples of your land to determine the fertilizer needs.

Farmers are cautioned against basing fertilizer rates on old tests.

Monday is the 11th annual "Ag Day" at Humboldt. The program features a free pancake feed.

The morning program starts at 9:30 at the Humboldt Sale Barn where butcher hogs will be evaluated by the audience for weight, backfat thickness, carcass length, and grade classification.

Winners of this contest will be announced on the afternoon program which will feature talks on swine production, management and nutrition by extension agents.

Nebraska cattlemen scored heavily in the carload lot bull division at the National Western Livestock Show in Denver.

Dale Redding of Minatare captured his 7th championship at the show with his load of Angus bulls.

The champion Hereford load of bulls went to Alfred Meeks and Sons of Taylor.

Another Farm & Home Day has been scheduled for Lancaster County.

An interesting program for farm families has been slated for Thursday at the Hickman Presbyterian Church by the Lancaster Extension Service.

55 TRAPPED IN JAP MINE

Sapporo, Japan (UPI)—A gas explosion entombed 63 coal miners more than a half mile below the surface Monday. Eight were saved, but no word has been received from the others.

Full-scale rescue efforts were delayed pending a report from a small reconnaissance party which went down to the 3,600-foot level where the explosion crumbled the shaft walls, trapping the men.

The accident occurred at the Yubari coal mine, 35 miles west of this northern Japan city.

Friends and relatives of the trapped men gathered around the mine entrance, trying to keep warm in the snow and 22 degree cold.

Drills Probe Toward 435

Coalbrook, South Africa (AP)—Drilling for a break through to 435 miners trapped in the Clydesdale Colliery pushed on Sunday night.

It is not known whether any of the 6 whites and 429 Africans, trapped 515 feet underground for 11 days, are alive.

Drilling at one point has reached 350 feet and is progressing at the rate of 10 feet an hour. Another drill is nearing 200 feet.

When the drill reaches the chamber where the men are believed trapped, a two-way microphone will be lowered.

If there are any survivors, food, oxygen and water will be lowered until a 12-foot emergency shaft can be sunk to reach them.

MAN GETS SURPRISE WHILE PARKING CAR

A Lincoln man got a surprise Sunday afternoon as he was trying to park downtown on So. 14th St. He thought he was backing into an ordinary spot, but his left front wheel dropped into a hole.

Police speculated that thawing had caused the hole which had been filled in after some water main work there.

MacArthur Still Serious

New York (UPI)—General Douglas MacArthur, who turned 80 last week, was pronounced improved but still in serious condition Sunday after two days of hospital treatment for a urological condition.

A specialist treating the hero of two world wars and the Korean conflict said after consultations with two other doctors that MacArthur would have to remain in the hospital for at least two more weeks.

Surgery is not being contemplated at present, officials said.

"Considerable time will be required to complete a full evaluation of the general's condition," said a urologist called in last week to treat MacArthur when he became ill after his 80th birthday party.

All visitors except members of MacArthur's family and his aides were barred from the general's suite on the fourth floor of a new $6 million hospital wing overlooking Park Avenue.

An Army sergeant guarded MacArthur's door and Army nurses tended him around the clock. The MacArthur entourage occupied 8 rooms on the floor. One room was being occupied by his wife, another by his aide, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, and others by various other persons associated with him.

Hit & Run Witnesses Are Sought

Police are looking for witnesses to a hit-and-run accident which hospitalized an 11-year-old Lincoln youth. The accident occurred early Saturday evening at 10th and P. John J. Hansen of 1014 So. 22nd, was reported in "good" condition at St. Elizabeth's Hospital following the mishap. He suffered minor abrasions and a possible sprained back, hospital officials reported.

The boy told police he was crossing the street when a car making a left turn on P struck him. He said the driver stopped and asked the youth if he was all right and then drove away when the boy said he was.

Car Described

The youth described the car as a white and brown 1950 Buick. He said the man was in his late 20's.

Police said any witnesses to the accident should phone police headquarters.

Traffic Lt. R. J. McMeen cautioned drivers not to leave the scene of an injury accident until a report is made with the police department. He said state and city laws require drivers to report an accident of this nature.

A Comeback For Sub-Rosa Frat?

Theta Nu Epsilon, a sub-rosa campus organization, banned from the University of Nebraska, made a subtle comeback to the campus scene recently via city-owned "one way" street signs along No. 16th St. lined by fraternity and sorority houses. Some recent moonless night, some culprit with a few strokes of black paint turned the "ONE WAY" into "ONE WAY"—Theta Nu Epsilon Way. Before 1951, ONE activities included midnight sorties of painting skull-and-crossbone insignias on doors and walks of student houses and university officials' homes. (Star Photo.)

Commissions Awarded To 22 NU Grads

Twenty-two University of Nebraska seniors received commissions in either the Army, Navy or Air Force in ceremonies preceding mid-year Commencement exercises.

Lt. Gen. Guy N. Henninger, former adjutant general of the State of Nebraska, presented the commissions.

Two graduating Army cadets, R. Bruce Abernathy and David L. Linn, both of Lincoln, were selected for appointment in the Regular Army. Glen R. Schmieding of Malcolm was selected for Regular Air Force appointment.

Poles Getting New U.S. Aid

Washington (AP)—The United States is about to give Poland $40 million more in economic aid—the third such installment in the past 8 months.

At the same time, the Polish Communist regime is reportedly nearly ready to sign an agreement compensating Americans for property seized in Poland immediately after World War II.

Polish-American negotiators, after nearly 11 months of talks in Warsaw, are understood to have agreed tentatively on a sum of $40 million to meet these American private claims.

Settlement of this problem would be another major step toward improving U.S. relations with the government of Wladyslaw Gomulka.

The newest $40 million American aid package would go for surplus grain urgently needed by the Poles to relieve a continuing food shortage.

Lancaster Conservation Program OK'd

Dale E. Nelson, Chairman of the Lancaster ASC County Committee, announced that the Lancaster County Agricultural Conservation Program for 1960 has been approved, adding that special emphasis is again being placed on practices which provide long-range benefits of soil and water resources.

Requests for Federal Cost-share aid for establishing conservation practices necessary for the protection and maintenance of soil and water resources are now being accepted, added Mr. Nelson.

He further explained that while government funds under the ACP are appropriated annually to aid farmers in establishing needed conservation practices, participation in the ACP is entirely voluntary. Each farmer and landowner having conservation problems will be given the opportunity to request the Federal Government to share the costs of conservation practices on their farm. Requests for cost-sharing will be accepted at the county ASC office in Lincoln.

By Louis Cassels
United Press International
Washington — A committee of prominent businessmen has announced the "reluctant conclusion" that federal aid is "necessary" to provide adequate schools in low-income states.

This conclusion — a departure from the opposition to federal aid for education usually taken by much of the business community — was the highlight of a 90-page report released by the research and policy committee of the Committee for Economic Development.

The committee, which included some of the nation's best-known corporation executives and industrial leaders, proposed that the federal government distribute about $800 million in string-free grants to strengthen public schools in "states where incomes are lowest." The report listed 19 states — mostly in the South — where per capita incomes are less than 80% of the national average.

The 19 were Mississippi, Arkansas, South Carolina, Georgia, North Carolina, Alabama, New Mexico, Tennessee, West Virginia, Utah, Oklahoma, Kentucky, Idaho, North Dakota, Louisiana, South Dakota, Virginia, Hawaii and Vermont.

The report said most of them are already spending on their schools a proportion of their income considerably larger than the national average, but even so are unable to support adequate schools.

It said that there is a clear and urgent "national interest" in insuring adequate schools in all parts of the country, and it is therefore appropriate for the federal government to step in with aid where local resources are inadequate to the task.

The committee asserted, however, that a general federal aid program, covering all states, is "unnecessary and undesirable."

These findings were endorsed by 39 of the 51 committee members, including Marion B. Felsom, president of Eastman Kodak Co. and former Secretary of Health, Education & Welfare.

Nine members were opposed to any federal aid, even for low-income states. Three members called for federal grants to all states.

The proposal for "limited" federal aid was one of 4 major recommendations made by the committee.

Others were:

1. In most states, the state government should take over from local school districts a larger share of the financial burden of schools. The committee said property taxes — the only source of revenue for most local school districts — have been pushed up about as high as they can go in many communities.

2. Reorganization of small school districts into large ones that can operate economically is an urgently-needed reform in many states, particularly in the Middle West, Far West and New England. Any school district with less than 2,000 students is too small for efficient operation. Nearly 90% of the 45,000 school districts now in existence have fewer than 1,200 students.

3. "More than money is required" to obtain better schools. Businessmen should join other citizens interested in improving education in organizing "permanent, representative" committees to fight for good schools at local and state levels.

Private Airplane Crashes Into Car

Gompton, Calif. (AP)—A light plane crashed into a car driving into a busy supermarket parking lot Sunday. The pilot and the driver of the car were killed.

Hundreds of onlookers near the busy suburban intersection watched horrified as the plane glided into the car, exploded and burned.

Witnesses reported the plane was circling crazily, as if the pilot were unconscious or dead.

He was identified as H. Arthur Greenman, 48, a student pilot with two hours solo time.

Evangelism Is Job Of Laymen, Too

... McConnell Says

A group of 250 to 300 persons were told Sunday afternoon that evangelism was a job that could be done more effectively by laymen than by ministers.

Dr. H. H. McConnell of New York, associate secretary of evangelism for the National Council of Churches, spoke on personnel evangelism at a mass meeting at East Lincoln Christian Church.

Dr. McConnell told the group that the layman can do a better job of influencing and cultivating new members for Christianity than pastors, because "people think we are professionals and know all the answers and are afraid to ask questions, thinking they may sound silly to us. They are more apt to break down and talk to the ordinary layman."

Job Of Church

Dr. McConnell said it is the job of the church to go to the people and not the people to the church. "This," he said, "can be done by the layman who will share his Christian experiences with other people."

The meeting was the beginning of the final phase of the Lincoln community mission begun last autumn. The rest of the program will continue this week as approximately 1,000 people from member and non-member churches of the Lincoln Council of Churches will make visits to persons who indicated a religious preference in a census last fall.

Seminars for ministers will be conducted by Dr. McConnell at 11 a.m. Monday through Thursday. The Monday meeting will be held at the YWCA and the others will be at East Lincoln Christian Church, according to the Rev. Merrill Willis, pastor of the Grace Methodist Church and general chairman of the program.

"The government provides everything from the cradle to the grave — education, jobs, retirement," he told students at the Hill school here. "It's guaranteed laziness."

What You Want Out Of Life

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Have you ever thought, at the end of a hard day's work, that the struggle really isn't worth the chips? Have you ever had a yearning just to get away from everything and everyone and live a life free from the worries and care of this world? These things are not just occasional thoughts among many people of Africa. They are a way of life.

The Wall Street Journal devoted considerable space to an explanation of the fact that most Africans south of the Sahara believe that leisure time is the ultimate achievement in life. Thus, many Africans will work until they have accumulated a little money and will then quit work until all their money is used up. The Journal report notes that in many areas of South Africa the average man is employed only about 40 per cent of his time and many of them prefer it that way. They figure it's better to be poor and at leisure than well off and working. Naturally, this creates problems in any effort to increase productivity and the standard of living in Africa.

Efforts are being made in Africa to create, through advertising, a desire on the part of Africans for products of modern manufacturing but it is having little success. Africans still are not convinced it is better to ride a bicycle than to walk or to buy a kerosene lantern when a campfire can be built. Thus, they are not motivated by any desire for material goods and, therefore, have little real purpose in working beyond what it takes for bare subsistence.

This, of course, is frustrating to men brought up under the influence of Western culture. They see work as a means of furthering the health, happiness, security and overall well-being of their families. And they value the material improvement of their position so highly that they are willing to work hard for it.

While this sort of philosophy makes sense to most of us, it does not mean that the Africans' philosophy is necessarily wrong. In fact, the African who seeks only leisure thinks we are slightly off in the head in working for anything beyond this. And who can say which of the two ideas is the correct one? In fact, there is a lot in our way of life to back up the way of life practiced by so many in Africa. They have achieved by a short-cut at least part of what we seek by working ourselves to death.

We work to achieve a higher standard of living and part of this higher standard is composed of leisure time. The African, of course, uses his leisure time in a different way—a way which does not require of him the possession of earthly goods. He finds it most satisfying just to sit under a shade tree, go on an occasional hunt or become engaged in some of the local games and pastimes.

But in the Western civilization, leisure time must be filled with boating, long trips, expensive hobbies, big parties, etc. This kind of leisure time demands a substantial nest egg or a good weekly wage and this cannot be acquired without hard work. But when you get done with it, it is hard to say that it is any more constructive a process than the one found in Africa.

You might think that living in a dirt-floored hut is something you could never tolerate. But if everybody else lived the same way and you actually knew nothing any better than that, it would no doubt be quite acceptable to you. The same thing can be said of a bed of straw, rags for cloths, wood for heat or perhaps a box for a chair.

In other words, it all boils down to your own sense of values and it is according to this sense of values that things are judged. When you get right down to it, what real advantage is there in riding a bicycle or even a car when you can walk? The advantage for us is all tied up in our whole way of life but when looked at by itself and apart from the influence of other things, riding per se is hard to defend as something of real value. It is true that our civilization has things of higher value than riding, such as education and better health but the Africans don't see these things as particularly worthy objectives.

It is likely that all of us would still stick to our way of life if given a choice in the matter but it would be well if we tried to understand the way in which many people of the world look at life. Even if we persist in the belief that our way is right, we should recognize that overnight changes in others just isn't in the cards.

Walking May Be Better

Better Prospects Ahead

Howard Pyle, head of the National Safety Council, told Nebraska listeners that 1960 will mark the greatest breakthrough in highway safety.

He was in Omaha to present an award to Gov. R. G. Brooks, and others for their efforts toward greater safety.

Pyle based his bright prognosis on two things. One was the greater public awareness of the mounting, but largely preventable, highway casualty list—a condition that lamentably assesses some three hundred Nebraska lives a year, not counting so much more in terms of non-fatal injury and impressive property loss.

But the other and more concrete factor is the increase of limited access highways of the Interstate type which by their design rule out many causes of death. Pyle said that the superhighways are responsible for a 62 per cent drop in accidents, a 57 per cent death rate reduction, and a 56 per cent decrease in accidents resulting in injury.

That constitutes a convincing set of figures. But taken by themselves they assure Nebraska that they will apply only to super highway travel. Most of Nebraska's highways cannot qualify.

But such proven evidence encourages redoubled efforts in eliminating death traps throughout the state highway system, more effective traffic controls, better highway marking, even more strenuous supervision of moving traffic, and elimination of blind crossings and such. Best of all it gives heart to the crusaders for safety for such happy figures say that safety is not an invincible problem. Drivers do not have to pay such toll in lives as the past has indicated.

Things Have Cleared Up

With a week of rapid developments on the controversial Interstate Highway issue, a great deal of thinking should have been straightened out. Gov. Ralph Brooks has acted with diligence and determination in an effort to get the Interstate program rolling after many years of bickering and political maneuvering. He inherited a bad highway situation from the previous GOP administration but has made what the record now shows to be substantial progress in his first year in office.

This record shows that the Interstate program is moving and will continue to move forward in an orderly fashion in various parts of the state. It shows that, contrary to assertions from other quarters, there has been no decision to abandon construction of the super highway in outstate areas. It is true that outstate areas may still not be getting all the fund allocations they want but such feelings as these will be a part of the program until it is completed.

We have yet to see anybody or any area which says it is satisfied with the distribution of government money on any project. Also settled now is the question of the location of the Interstate from Grand Island to North Platte. If political partisans want to chalk up the delay in this matter to the present Democratic state administration, they are free to do so but they will have a hard time convincing anyone of this in view of past GOP delays of the matter and repeated requests for the area involved for further study of the matter.

If the Interstate program from this point on is disrupted and delayed, it will not be the fault of the governor. If the next five years still find us struggling to get a good start on the Interstate, it will be the fault of those who are unwilling to compromise and who prefer endless debate to the realization of anything by anybody other than themselves. It is hoped that by the time this week is over, all the disturbing elements of this issue will have been quieted.

It Isn't All One Way

Admiral Hyman Rickover is no friend and defender of the American educational system as it stands today. He has not changed his mind. Recently in a public appearance he sharply criticized the emphasis on athletic competition at the expense of basic studies in literature, mathematics, the sciences and languages. As a saving act he saw, if not federal control, at least federal standards.

While he was at it the admiral delivered a few kicks at schools that emphasize administration rather than teaching, and at too many homes where intellectual interest is lacking. The admiral believes altruism has been carried too far, to the point that it is better to hand out diplomas rather than hurt any feelings, all of which, he believes renders most diplomas valueless, and most young minds useless.

Grant all that the good admiral says, though it is true that somehow a good many young people wind up with highly trained minds, there is a larger consideration in this problem of education.

The American educational system has not been the product of scheming educators but a result of public demand and a specialized market. Until lately it managed to keep pace with the growing demand for the services of medicine, law, business, industry, social services and citizenship. If the swift and harsh turn of events exploded into the space age it caught the schools no more unprepared than it did all other American institutions. If they did not flood the country with scientists 25 years ago it was because there was little if any market for them. And there is even today an uncertain and unpredictable position for them.

This does not excuse the schools from making haste to meet the new demand, but it does say that education has a shared responsibility with many other beleaguered units of our society. Not the least is the average citizen himself who has had no prior training for the grim and strange responsibilities that now confront him.

Ike's Power Bid Said Unprecedented

WASHINGTON — After some digging in the Library of Congress, Sen. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma has come up with a fact that most newsmen have overlooked. He has found that no other president in history has been given what Ike now demands—the power to raise interest rates on long-term government bonds.

Monroney, an ex-newspaperman, chided his former colleagues of the press for failing to report this fact.

"The Wall Street Journal, the New York Times," said Monroney, "would only have had to look up a little history to find that from George Washington until the present, no president has ever been given the right to issue long-term bonds without having the interest ceiling fixed by Congress."

"How can Eisenhower ask for powers which no other president has ever had," asked the senator from Oklahoma, "and demand a complete surrender of congressional power? We do not find anything in the financial columns which indicates that such an action would breach all historic precedent."

"The senator from Oklahoma," observed Sen. Paul

Douglas of Illinois, a former economics professor, "is a former journalist. Journalists are permitted to criticize journalists, but politicians are not permitted to criticize journalists. Politicians become irresponsible when they criticize journalists. So I am glad the senator who was a journalist is criticizing the journalists."

What worries the state department about the crisis in Algeria is the question: what would happen to France if anything happened to De Gaulle?

Not only does De Gaulle risk assassination if he carries out his plan to go to Algeria, but he is not in good health. He is suffering from cataracts and his eyesight is failing. His liver is giving him trouble and he has difficulty sleeping.

On top of this, there have been almost open threats of assassination from Algeria where bitterness is intense.

Yet should De Gaulle be removed from the French political scene there is no strong man to take his place. Fascist rule by the French army would be almost inevitable.

Power Urges SAC Constantly Airborne

WASHINGTON—Few military men can put in words the utterly awe-inspiring nature of the new weapons, and the problems born of them, as vividly as Gen. Thomas S. Power, the dedicated airman who commands SAC.

Here are some of the things he said to the National Security Commission of the American Legion in Washington recently:

"There can be little doubt that the Soviets are producing ballistic missiles at the high rate indicated repeatedly by Mr. Khrushchev. It is, therefore, conceivable that, within about two years, they will have built up a sufficient stockpile to permit a massive missile attack on the United States."

"When that time comes, we will have no active defense whatever against their ballistic missiles. We will have an interim warning capability within this time period. But we will not have in full operation warning systems which, under all circumstances, will give SAC enough warning to get the alert force airborne before it can be destroyed on the ground. (Ed Note: SAC is now on continuous 15-minute alert.)"

"Until these missile warning systems become available, SAC's alert force must be in the position to survive a surprise attack without any warning at all."

Power's recommendation: Keep a large number of SAC bombers in the air at all times, ready to go in and bomb pre-determined targets in the event of a Soviet attack.

Cost: At least $1,000,000,000 a year in fuel alone.

Col. Frank Gabreski, USAF, the greatest living ace who now commands a fighter group based at Myrtle Beach, S.C., tells us a harrowing story of poison-pressure.

Last November, in Operation Spearhead, a mass flight of F-100's from Myrtle Beach to France, the intrepid young airmen made three refuelings through the night, over the Atlantic, hit the French coast at the precisely right spot, and then found their appointed fields zeroed in by atrocious weather.

Eighteen of the 20 super-sonic fighters made Ground Control Approach landings, a superb performance when one takes into consideration the complexity of the plane and the myriad duties detailed to a lone pilot who has already been in the air more than ten hours. But two boys couldn't make it. They were waved off by radio as they headed down through the soup all but all out of fuel.

A tanker went aloft. The two jets found it in the murk, took a long drink, tooled around for another two hours, and brought their craft in safely.

You should hear the pride in Gabreski's voice as he talks about "my boys." A great officer and gentleman, this man!

The Fairchild people, who make photo-mapping equipment for the services, among other things, unveiled an 8-millimeter sound movie camera the other day.

The man from Sales enthused, "I predict that in a very short time—as our competitors build something like it and the habit spreads—silent home movies will become as passe as silent pictures in theaters. Capture the voices of your children and grandchildren—as well as their pictures—voices that can never be captured again!"

Looks like some hard years ahead for friends on whom you inflict your home movies. Up to now, they've been able to doze in the darkness. Now you can keep them awake and suffering with a composite "Goo" in every living room and den in the land.

Wonders Of The Universe

The Soviets did more than establish a space "first" when their Lunik III photographed the far side of the moon. They got their first real chance to name its geographic features.

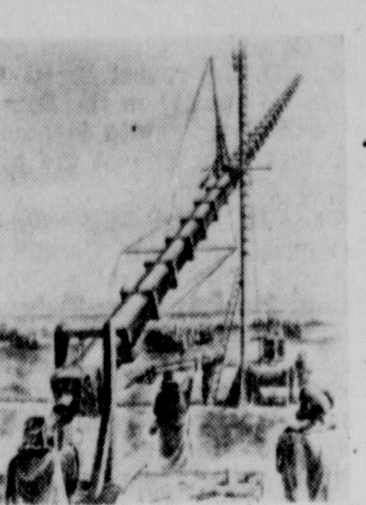

In the past, with no special emphasis on astronomy, the Russians only managed a few names, such as Struve and Krafft, and it wasn't until last year that they really got going: Sea of Moscow, craters named Tomonosov, Tsiolkovsky, etc.

It was only after the astronomical telescope came into general use that the moon's features could be distinguished well enough to be named. The first crude map of the moon resulted from investigations by the brilliant Galileo in 1610. He recognized mountains and estimated their heights.

But it was not until John Hevel, city councillor of Danzig and better known as Hevelius, made his map, far improved over that of Galileo, that naming moon-features really got underway.

Hevelius published his "Selenographia" in 1647. It remained the standard authority for more than a century and included names for over 250 mountains, craters and seas. Hevelius also catalogued some 1500 stars with his 150-foot telescope.

There was nothing sacred about moon names in those days, however, and a Jesuit astronomer, Riccioli of Bologna, made a later map with some names changed to suit himself. He honored mathematicians, philosophers and astronomers. Also it was Riccioli who called the moon's dark areas "seas."

Another standard map was drawn in 1837 by Beer and Madler, and more features changed names, a happening that occurred many times over the centuries. This practice no longer occurs, however, since the naming of lunar features is now subject to rules laid down by the International Astronomical Union.

Apparently, the Sea of Moscow will remain just that. Mythical beings such as Hercules, Atlas and King Cephus were among the first to be honored by having lunar features named after them, but the ancient philosophers received their share of honors: Hipparchus, perhaps the greatest astronomer of antiquity, had a large ring named after him. Other features were named after Plato, Pythagoras, Archimedes, Sosthenes and Eratosthenes.

The Arabs, once great philosophers, provided such names as Albatagnus, Alfraganus, Alpetragius and Alhazen. Saints include Dionysius, Theophilus and Cyrilus.

Moon map-makers had a tender spot for explorers as well: Scott, Peary, Amundsen, Shackleton, Columbus (Columbus), Cook, Cortez and Vasco Da Gama, even Marco Polo rated a crater.

By nationality, the Germans, Italians, French and English lead the way since they represented nations most interested in astronomy. They were discriminating, however, naming features only after the most famous of their countrymen.

The French, as an example, named craters for Flammarion, Gauss, Foucault, Descartes, Daguerre and Ampere; all bright lights of science.

The Germans included Kepler, Sporer, Schroter, Bessel, Wolf, Humboldt and Gutenberg.

The Italians, with quite a headstart, relinquished the lead early but only after they had honored Da Vinci, Galileo, Donati and Cassini with craters. The Spanish, somewhat behind in the field, have craters named for King Alphonsus and Rabbi Levy, a Spanish-Jewish astronomer.

Herschel (for William, Caroline and John) is found three times among the British list, Halley, Eddington, Adams, Huggins and Faraday are also honored.

The United States, a Johnny-come-lately in astronomy, has craters named for scientists like Hall, Bond, Pickering and Newcomb; and Haas, Alter and La Pez, who are still alive.

There is even one crater named after Ben Franklin, which must have been worth a chuckle to that great American philosopher, scientist and humorist.

Out In The Open

Central City, Neb.

It looks as if Nebraska and Omaha will continue on their way 30 years behind the times. When cars first came out, we passed through all the little burgs on our way to our destination. How silly that would be now. Yet Omaha is doing that very thing. If it is true that the cost of the Interstate is $45 million in Omaha, then someone needs his head examined.

I was on the Kansas Turnpike recently, and it misses Wichita by a mile or two; just an average blacktop highway leads out to the turnpike from the city.

And who came up with the figure that there are more people north of the Platte River than there are south? Someone should look at his map again.

Forty-five million dollars should build 100 to 125 miles of four-lane highway west of Lincoln in open country—and open country is where it should be located.

H. J. WARNER

Taking And Giving

Lincoln, Neb.

As a member of the Chamber of Commerce's Contact Club, I congratulate you for the splendid editorial which appeared in the Thursday, Jan. 28, Star.

That afternoon, while returning from lunch, I detoured again to invite the local representative of an Omaha investment firm to put its shoulder to the Lincoln civic wheel. We covered several points you mentioned, and others. I'm sorry to report that this firm allegedly does not value the Lincoln business climate enough to invest $40 per year in its continuance.

Our greatest problem is to awaken the many fine businessmen, professional men and other leaders who take no interest whatever in our civic climate, other than periodic carping. The leaders lead, they get out of an effort proportionately to what they put into it, and we expect perhaps 25 per cent of our leading citizens to do the job for the rest of them. It is easier to receive than to contribute—and that is their code.

ELMER H. MAHLIN

Drivers' Tests

Nebraska City, Neb.

Several months ago Gov. Brooks promised us that his highway safety program would run 50,000 drivers off the Nebraska highways. His special Legislative Safety Council has now made its report. Among other things, it recommends that "Persons over 65 should be required to take periodic re-examinations for renewal of drivers' licenses."

Nowhere have we ever read that this age group roared down the highways, a menace to themselves and everyone in their path. In fact, the experts tell us that they are the group with the fewest accidents. No age group has the "edge" on any physical shortcomings in matters of health, either. Even young people these days often have heart attacks. So why this senseless gross discrimination against the 65 age group in Nebraska?

While the highways of Nebraska run red with the blood of our children, politicians are making plans to "nail" Grandpa and Grandma to their easy chairs. How naive can they get? It's silly for any politician to believe that the 65-agers will sit in Nebraska and rock while they are robbed of their privilege to drive. California, Arizona, Florida and such states are rolling out the red carpet to catch those on the social security gravy train—but not dear old Nebraska. Nebraska gives us a good kick in the pants to send us on our way.

SIXTY-FIVE Futile Pursuit

Howells, Neb.

We watched a beach scene

once that was rather symbolic. A small boy had been playing with an inflated beach ball. It got away from him and the boy's father swam after it. We soon became aware that the swimmer was losing the race seaward to the ball, but this was not visible to the would-be hero. A lifeguard launched a rescue, intercepted the swimmer and told him: "Mister, you are not supposed to risk your life going after a mere gaw-gaw. If we hadn't stopped you, you would have ended up in France!"

So we compare this to the behavior of the administration. It has gotten itself in the sea of world politics, chasing hither and thither frantically, and without a sense of true comparison and basic values tries to tie us with a commitment that we cannot, will not, and should not make. How in the name of reason can we bring freedom to the peoples of Afghanistan, Morocco, Spain, Greece, Pakistan and Tunisia? Does the administration want us to believe that these forgotten millions will be encouraged to make a call to arms against their dictators? If it does not, if it merely wants to make-believe, then how will freedom ever develop among them? How will they ever get free votes and responsible government? How can Americans face Providence, after allowing a catastrophic fatality to pass?

Dear Abby-- Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We are having a big mix-up in our family. A cousin of ours recently died and left a young widow. A brother of the dead man is doing double duty and has been acting like a husband to this widow. He is married. He says the Bible says it is all right. Where in the Bible does it say such things on?

DOUBTER
DEAR DOUBTER: Your cousin is probably referring to DEUTERONOMY 25:5 and following verses wherein it states that a woman who has been widowed without offspring may seek relations with her husband's brother. Your cousin is using this passage to suit his own purpose. He must surely know that this Deuteronomic law has fallen out of use because of the moral and legal changes in our civilization.

DEAR ABBY: After our Company Christmas Party there was a lot of talk because the husbands and wives of the employees were not invited.

I was on the Christmas Party Planning Committee and I think the public should know that all the employees in OUR company were asked for a secret ballot to decide whether or not the husbands and wives of the employees should be included. It was almost 100% in favor of the husbands and wives staying home.

ON THE COMMITTEE

DEAR ABBY: Last summer the plant where my husband works gave their annual picnic and it was one of those "no wives and no husbands" deals. I wish you could have heard the stories they told about it afterwards. They gave prizes for "mixed wrestling matches". (Men and women.) Some men fell in the lake with their clothes on and my own dear husband came home at two the next morning stiffer than a billygoat.

So when the plant announced their annual Christmas party, also without husbands and wives, I wouldn't let my husband go. He's still mad at me. Was I wrong?

MRS. C.

DEAR MRS. C.: Not under the circumstances. Don't worry, he'll get over it in time to butter you up for the annual picnic.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HOPING": Don't look for a reconciliation. She loves hating you too much.

Opening lead — ace of diamonds.

When you play duplicate and bid and make a vulnerable major suit slam, you score 1,430 points. If your vulnerable opponents are smart enough to sacrifice against the slam, going down five doubled for 1,400 points, they get the best of the exchange.

The 30 points they save wouldn't mean much in rubber bridge, but in a pair game, where every point counts, they could loom very large.

George Rapee, New York star who has four times represented the United States in international matches and won three world championships, was once playing in a pair event and held the West hand.

When planning a new room or doing over an old one be sure to keep your friends in mind. Is there room to have a good arrangement of chairs for conversation? Room for a sofa, coffee table and at least two side chairs to draw into a friendly circle?

Do you have extra folding tray stands to hold a drink or a cup of coffee? Are there places for ash trays and are they large enough? Are all your chairs so low and modern that the older guest will have trouble getting in and out of them?

What about the fire? Is it crackling a welcome when the first guest arrives? How about your lighting? Does it softly flatter or is its brightness too harsh? Set a lovely stage and you will have a good "show."

Mrs. M. C. asks:
"I have two questions. No. 1: My walls are beige; furniture dark. Two corner cupboards are maple color. Should these be painted the color of the walls or what? No. 2: Is it still in style to use the cupboards for good dishes and glassware? I use both of mine for cup and saucer collection but I'm not sure they are very attractive."

Dear Mrs. M. C.:
For question No. 1: I would paint the outside of the cupboards to match the walls (or, if your room isn't too chopped up, paint them a spanking white) with shelves and interior a luscious tempting tangerine, geranium pink, green olive or whatever color best shows off your dishes.

No. 2: Two cupboards of cups and saucers sound rather monotonous. I think I'd like the variety of big plates, platters, cups, etc. Put your cup and saucer collection on open wall shelves in a wall group.

Mrs. P. K. asks:
"We want to use a vinyl floor covering for our living room but the patterns look so kitcheny."

Dear Mrs. P. K.:
You aren't looking in the right store! There never have been such stunning patterns. See champagne mist, golden night, silver cloud, sunset red, golden fleece or corsican black.

Mrs. P. C. asks:
"I would like to repaint my living room. My furniture is orange, and sofa is Hunter green. My end tables are Danish walnut. Also what color rug should I buy?"

Dear Mrs. P. C.:
With your orange accents and dark green sofa, "sagebrush" color walls and rug would be a good choice.

Brides At Sunday Weddings

MRS. JOHN ELSWICK

The wedding of Miss Jane Feather, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn A. Feather, and Pvt. John Elswick, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Elswick of Seattle, Wash., took place Sunday afternoon, Jan. 31, in the chapel of the First Methodist Church. Frosted greens and blue-tinged carnations appointed the candlelight altar for the 4 o'clock service, which was read by the Rev. Carl Davidson.

As her sister's maid of honor, Miss Rebecca Feather appeared in a ballerina frock of blue brocade and carried a nosegay of white carnations. Costumed identically was the bridesmaid, Miss Heather Wilhelm of Villisca, Ia. Miss Mary Lou Hodgkin of Kansas City, and Miss Cathy Neff of Lexington, lighted the candles, and the flower girl was Judy Wilhelm of Villisca. Marcille Massoni of Seattle was the ringbearer.

MRS. JAMES RONALD HUTCHINS

Lighted cathedral candles and pyramids of white chrysanthemums and gladioli, and blue woodwardia accented with gold, appointed the bridegroom; Charles Olson, Nebraska City; Wayne Brown, Omaha; Jerry Lempka, Tecumseh; and Dale Joy.

The bride chose for her wedding a gown of imported Chantilly lace and silk tulle over satin in the candlelight tone. A band of lace ruching bordered the wide decollete of the long-sleeved basque of lace and was repeated at the elongated waistline beneath which the tulle skirt was shirred into extreme fullness and continued into a cathedral train. Her veil of silk illusion was held by a tiny cap of satin, and she carried a white prayer book clustered with white orchids, Amazon lilies and valley-lilies.

A reception was held at Cotner Terrace.
Mr. and Mrs. Hutchins, both graduates of the University of Nebraska, will reside at San Diego, Calif., where the bridegroom is stationed with the Navy. The bride is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, and Mr. Hutchins is a member of Beta Theta Pi.

Tom Hutchins served his brother as best man, and the corps of ushers included Joel Hutchins, also a brother of the bridegroom; Charles Olson, Nebraska City; Wayne Brown, Omaha; Jerry Lempka, Tecumseh; and Dale Joy.

Stan Delaplane's POSTCARD

The Public Health Service of the United States traces its beginning to 1798.

It has imposing duties and an imposing title. However, as far as you are concerned, it narrows down to a lady in a white uniform who says:

"Roll up your sleeve, please."

Other inoculations are stabbed into you by your jovial, personal physician. But the United States reserves to itself the right to jab you for yellow fever.

What impresses me about these affairs is the way they fill the needle right in front of you. I don't mean just Public Health. My own medic is a needle filler.

"Hmmm, doesn't seem to want to fill. Ah, there, that's it."

Anyway, I hustled out to the Public Health Service the other day.

The waiting room was full of people with THEIR sleeves rolled up. You know, that kind of casual look that is too casual?

A lady filled out my yellow card.

"Are you allergic to eggs?" she asked.

"Thank you," I said, "I just had lunch."

"The inoculation is grown in eggs," she said. "If you are allergic to eggs, it would be too bad."

"It is too bad anyway," I said. "I am not allergic to eggs."

"Sit over there," she said. I joined the rolled sleeve party.

The lady who fixes your yellow card does not do the bayonet work. That is done by another lady who puts her head out the door and calls your name.

"Ever had one of these before?"

"Yes, ma'am." (I am very polite to a lady who is about to stick me.)

The lady sucked up some fluid in the needle. She drew it up carefully as though she liked her work.

She lifted the needle up.

CASS MUSEUM TO OPEN THIS SPRING

By Gene Budig
Plattsmouth — The feats of Cass County pioneers won't soon be forgotten.

Through the efforts of the Cass County Historical Society, a 30 by 60-foot brick museum filled with Cass County collector items will be opened this spring.

The new fireproof structure is two-thirds complete.

Grace Livingston, treasurer of the county society, reports that the museum will house articles ranging from original land-grant charters to antique firearms. Nearly 10,000 items will be on display.

Many Articles

"We have almost too many articles to display now," Miss Livingston informed.

The local museum booster said that she believes the museum will be among the finest in Nebraska.

"Co-operation on this project has been wonderful," she declared. "All of the goods have been given to the society without us having to stage a drive of any kind."

According to Miss Livingston, quite a few of the donated articles have been sent by former Plattsmouth residents. Many of the articles are in storage at the county courthouse.

Miss Livingston described the assistance of Plattsmouth civic clubs as "outstanding." Land for the museum and

ODDS UPSET BY HAASE; SINGLES WIN REPEATED

678 Total Nips Workman; Lead Holds Through Finale

... ULRICH'S TEAM SCORE UNCHALLENGED

By Paul LeBar
Walt Haase scoffed at the odds and won the singles title of the men's city bowling tournament for a second straight time Sunday.

The kegler's 597-81-678 composite was one pin above that of early leader Loren Workman and it held up easily over final run of the 9-day meet.

Haase, last year's winner with a 685 mark, dropped as did winners in all other divisions.

Ulrich Lockers, which roared into first place in the first day of the tourney, was unchallenged through the wind-up.

2994 Wins
The Northeast Lancaster League quip composed of Banan Gillispie, Darrell Ulrich, Willie Hardesty, Pat Plambeck and Bob Coates shot 2535-459-2994 for the crown.

WOMEN'S KEGLING ON RISE

... But Men Fell

It was a strange tournament. Women's scores were on an upward trend all the way. Men's scores were consistently disappointing.

Final enrollment figures included 748 teams, 756 doubles and 1512 singles.

In the money with the women were figures of 2572 for teams, 1056 for doubles and 540 for singles.

Teams and doubles compared favorably with the 2506 and 1023 requisites of a year ago.

Men's money figures were 575 for singles, 1124 for doubles and 2801 for teams.

Only teams, 2771 last year, rose. Money requirement for singles in 1959 was 589. For doubles it was 1154.

Walt Meisinger's 684 with Toby Jewett's of the Elks League was high series of the tournament for the men. Yvonne Pettit's 615 paced the gals.

Meisinger also etched the top tournament game of 268 (See p. 8, col. 6)

Gillispie's 567 effort spurred the outfit to exactly 100 pins per game over its league average of 745. Ulrichs replaced Walt's Mobil as the handicap winner.

Woody's 5, made up veteran Bill Koehler and youngsters Gary Cerny, Jim Dill, Harold Hoage and Stan Tyrrell grabbed scratch honors with a 2784 aggregate, 14 pins over the total of 1959 winner Bartlett and Co.

Singles Hex

Biggest surprise — and perhaps the tournament's biggest disappointment — was the hex which hung over singlists at Bowl-Mor Lanes.

George Jacobs' 618 came out of it all as tops in scratch scores. The mark compared poorly with Jim Munson's 681 which copped honors a year ago.

There were several other better series in the tournament but none when they counted.

Gene Flynn and Rolly Owens rushed into first place in the doubles competition Saturday and no pair came closer to them than 5th place during the final day.

Koehler and George Fisk, defending scratch champions, repeated with a 1211 effort Sunday, but they, too, were 30 pins under their 1959 mark.

Koehler's 675 in doubles and 604 in singles helped hang on to the all events championship with a 1784 posting, 64 pins under his mark of a year ago.

—STILL AFTER 1ST WIN—

Huskies Host Tigers Tonight

By Bob McCoy

The Nebraska Cornhuskers may be getting tired of the old "try, try again" saw, but they haven't given up yet.

Coach Jerry Bush's band makes bid No. 6 for a Big 8 Conference victory tonight, hosting Missouri at 8:05 in the Coliseum.

Nebraska hasn't won in 1960, but there's better than average hopes tonight. The invading Tigers were the last Husker victim — in the Big 8 tournament at Kansas City in late December.

Colorado dropped the NU league record to 0-5 Saturday night with a 58-54 decision

Koehler almost eliminated himself when he registered a lowly 505 in his team event. Stan Tyrrell was second all-around with 1773 and Jim Dill 3rd at 1773.

Johnston-Robb Top Gals' Doubles With Late Spree

... 1166 Best; Tyrrell's Singles Score Stands Up

By Paul LeBar
Willie Johnston and June Robb, a pair of gals with 156 and 163 averages respectively, are Lincoln's 1960 women's doubles champions.

Mrs. Johnston and Mrs. Robb rolled well over those averages while charting a 1094-72-1166 and replacing Norman Bliss and Virginia Kimball as titlists Sunday.

They ousted Louise Davila and Phyllis Thompson after the latter had clung to the lead for a week of the 9-day event.

The handicap total was 4 pins over the Bliss-Kimball mark of a year ago.

Tottie First

Mrs. W. V. (Tottie) Tyrrell retained first place in women's singles through the final day. Mrs. Colleen Stainbrook was the only newcomer on the final chart, entering at 4th place with a 621 composition.

Mrs. Tyrrell, who averages 145 in league play, was torrid while stringing scratch totals of 150, 222 and 201 to go with her 63-pin handicap.

She crowded out Mrs. Enid Oshman for the title while soaring 5 pins above Jean Groves' winning handicap total of 631 in 1959.

Scratch Champ
Stella Morgan, who finished in 12th place, was scratch champion with a 584. She carried only 18 pins handicap.

Previously, Anderson Studio of the Hollywood Ladies Big 12 League had wrapped up the ladies' team title with a 2529-270-2799 mark.

Burklund's Appliance of Ceresco—all Lincoln bowlers —was the scratch champion at 2587. Those totals were both higher than marks of the year before.

Janssen Leads
Bernice Janssen, week-long leader in the all events, supplanted Lois Mousel as champion in that division with her 1641 composite.

Mrs. Mousel shot 1744 to win in 1959 but was unable to defend when hospitalized during the week.

Mrs. Johnston, scratch all events titlist last year, dropped to 8th place. She suffered with an injured thumb and rolled only totals of 489, 591 and 494 against her 179 league average.

The scratch total of Mrs. Johnston and Mrs. Robb was high for the tournament in doubles. Final standings:

Kearney Tuesday, travels to Doane Thursday and winds up at home against Concordia Saturday.

Other action finds Dana at Peru Tuesday night.

Biggest surprise among the jocos last week was Fairbury's recovery on a western swing to Scottsbluff and McCook.

The Bombers blitzed Scottsbluff 71-68, then trimmed McCook 72-68 to retake possession of first place.

Included on the list are Catchers Issac Barnes of Greenville, Mass., Ken Eeles of Chicago, and John Torri of Seatonville, Ill. Pitchers are Vince Palmisano of Glendale, Calif., John Jahn of Des Moines and Anthony Fillichia, a righthander who was drafted by the Chiefs at the minor league convention last December.

Barnes was purchased from the Memphis Red Sox. Eeles played at Holdrege last summer, hitting .214 in 37 games.

Torri, a former Notre Dame player, played for Duluth-Superior in Class C last year.

Palmisano, a lefthander, had a 3-2 record for Duluth-Superior. He broke in at Holdrege in 1957 and played at Dubuque, Ia., in 1958.

Big 10 Rat Race

I have never become convinced of the Big 10 Conference's superiority as a Nebraska conference. The quality of the top members has always left me unimpressed, although the league always develops one or two top teams a year.

I think the Inter-City League has a great advantage when it comes to quality, and the Mid-East might also surpass the Big 10 in

Houston Resigns As Mo. Valley Member

Kansas City (AP)—The University of Houston Sunday resigned from the Missouri Valley Conference.

The resignation was accepted by the conference following a lengthy meeting of its faculty representatives and athletic directors. Resignation is effective June 10.

Berres Up To 5th In Point Race

Wayne's Larry Berres made the biggest advancement among Nebraska College Conference scorers last week.

The senior, a product of Wayne Prep, sizzled for 39 points at Concordia and added 31 points over the weekend.

Berres' spree netted him 5th place on the chart with 172 points.

Last year the 6-2 performer tossed in 81 points for the season.

Southeast Seeks City Title Share

Lincoln Southeast seeks a share of the city cage title in its second outing against Lincoln High at the PSA Building. Strangely, the Knights are rated an even chance to whip LHS.

Southeast is currently the hottest team in the city after smacking York 62-41 and then Northeast, 69-53, last week. The 1-2 punch of big Keith Sieck and little Denny Puelz has jelled, making SE potent. A win over LHS, which has lost 3 straight, would leave both teams with 3-1 records in city competition.

The Knights might claim the title later in a game against Pius X, since they are the only one of the 3 public high schools to play Pius or Uni.

A more suitable settlement—providing SE does beat the Links, something the Knights have never done—would come in another match in the district tournament.

The game is the highlight of the cage schedule, which also has Grand Island at Northeast Saturday, while Omaha North plays at Lincoln.

On the minor sport scene, the Mid-East Conference has its swimming and gymnastics championships Friday at Southeast and Northeast, respectively.

The host Knights, who are at Lincoln High for a tough dual meet Wednesday, are favored in swimming, while Hastings is the gym choice.

Nat. Life Remains Unbeaten

National Life of Vermont continued unbeaten in the Nebraska AAU league although losing a game last week.

National Life was beaten by second-place Stars of Storz, 88-78, in a non-league game at Ralston. The game filled the bill when Lincoln Air Force Base, scheduled to meet the Stars, was forced to forfeit.

In regular action, National Life whipped Mutual Benefit 86-74 and Yehlen's of Columbus downed Gerry's Sports of Falls City, 89-76.

Accurate free throw shooting helped pay off for National Life as it hit on 20 of 23 points and 20 by Chuck Smith paced the win as the Seals expanded a 39-36 halftime lead. Bob Eberspacher and Jim Hugel hit 23 and 20 for Mutual Benefit.

Despite a 28-point showing by Joe Houfek, Behlen's had little difficulty disposing of Gerry's. The Columbus team got 23 points from Dutch Erickson and 22 by Kendall Peterson.

Behlen's held a 44-36 advantage by halftime.

High-Rated Clubs In Tourney Action

Tournaments matching highly-rated teams are in the spotlight this week.

The Eastern Nebraska Conference meet at Papillion has Ralston, ranked 4th in Class B, plus Arlington, Elkhorn and Papillion, all in last week's C list.

Hastings St. Cecilia and Harvard, two C contenders, are in the Henderson Invitational along with Aurora.

Unbeaten Avoca has a tough test in the Cass County at Murdock, with Weeping Water formidable opposition. The Gage County at Beatrice should be a Clatonia-Holmesville battle.

Wahoo is host to two tournaments, the Platte Valley at Wahoo High School and the Saunders County at Luther College. An even dozen tournaments are on tap.

Meisinger Fired 684 With Team

(Cont. from p. 7)

Bill Koehler turned loose with a 255 pinfall while rolling doubles with George Fisk Sunday. Merlin Teet of Wentz Plumbing had a 252 game earlier in the week in the team event.

High women's game was Verna Retherford's 251.

The girls ranked only the top 3 in all events competition a year ago. Totals of 1465 and above were in the money this year.

The men needed 1610 to get into all events money. Requirement was 1622 in 1959.

Twenty-three girls entered the ladies' special 600 Club Sweeper. Stella Morgan won it with a 551. Others below her were Ginny Engel (537), Shirley Busboom (527), Bernice Janssen (524), Elsie Gudeker (516) and Lois Mousel (515).

Men's City Secretary Bernice Kossek says he's still got plenty to keep him busy. There are something like 600 checks to be mailed out for top one-fourth of the finishers.

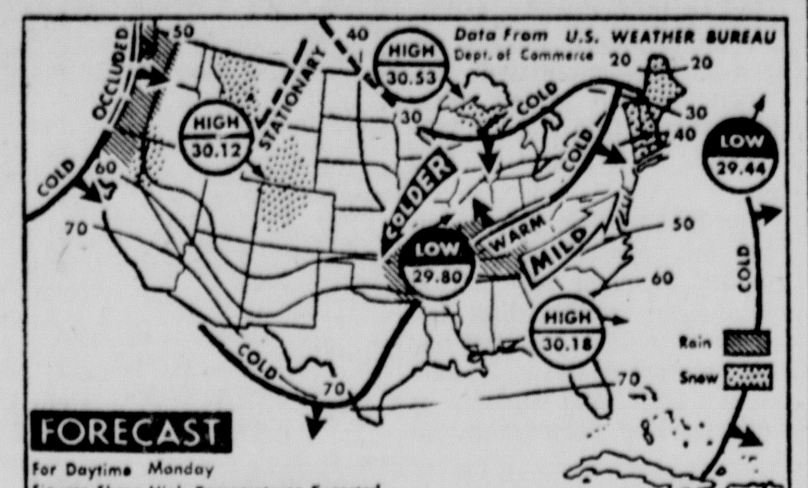

Women's City Secretary Stella Kaufman got a surprise and consolation for just missing high scratch honors with Marie Johnson in the ladies' doubles. Her staff treated her to a covered dish buffet at conclusion of the meet.

$490,000 Gretna School Dedicated

Lincoln Star Special
Gretna—The 12-grade elementary and high school building here drew a crowd of between 400 and 500 persons for formal dedication ceremonies Sunday.
State Commissioner of Education Freeman Decker spoke at the ceremonies, and tours of the new school were held.
The fire-resistant brick veneer building and site cost approximately $490,000 including furnishings. The project was financed by a $492,000 bond issue and a sinking fund of about $20,000.
The building includes 6 elementary and kindergarten classrooms, 7 high school classrooms, and a library and shop, plus a gymnasium, auditorium, and lunchroom-cafeteria.
Schools Superintendent Roger Hanson said the students now number 340 in the 450-capacity building, with elementary grades running at near-capacity enrollments.
Elementary classes have been held at the new building, southwest of Gretna, since September.

Little Change In Weather Outlook
Fair weather is forecast for the Atlantic states Monday except for occasional rain along the coastal sections of the northern Middle Atlantic states and snow flurries in most of New England. Rain is expected in the western parts of the Ohio and Tennessee valleys, the central Mississippi valley and the eastern portions of the central plains. Snow flurries are slated for the upper lakes region and the higher elevations of the north and central Rockies. Occasional rain again is expected along the Pacific coast from Washington to northern California. (AP Wire-photo Map.)

David City Grade School Bond Vote Set For Feb. 18

David City — School district voters will decide in a special election here Feb. 18 on a proposed bond issue to cover construction of a new elementary school building.
The proposition is whether the David City School District shall issue $195,000 in bonds to build and furnish the school. A special tax levy would pay off the bonds.
If the issue is approved, the school would be built on a square block site northeast of the present high school building. Property there was acquired after it was decided that the present grade school site, in the southern part of David City, was unsatisfactory because it is not centrally located.

Demos Accused Of Politicking In Attacks On Defense Policy

Washington (UPI) — House GOP whip Leslie C. Arends charged Sunday that Democratic "pseudo defense experts" are trying to drag national defense into politics.

The Illinois congressman, ranking Republican on the House Armed Services Committee, said Democratic critics of the administration's defense program are "making irresponsible statements in complete disregard to the actual facts."

Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, also defended administration military policies in a television interview.

"The people in government who are charged with planning and implementing the national defense are the most dedicated people I know," White said. "They cannot and they will not put this country in jeopardy."

Strength In Numbers
White conceded that Russia now has a numerical missile superiority over the United States, but he said "in the overall military cluster, we are not behind at all."

He also reiterated his belief that the Strategic Air Command and the Navy's Polaris missile program should be placed under a unified command.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex.) meanwhile accused Republicans of trying to blame the Democrats "for being behind" in missile and space developments. "I think it's an insult to the intelligence of Americans to claim we're not behind," he said.

Use The Tax Form That's Best For You—McCrory

Confusion among some taxpayers as to which federal income tax form to use has brought this advice from James L. McCrory, district director of the Internal Revenue Service.

"Use the income tax form that's best for you," advises McCrory concerning the 3 forms: 1040A, 1040W, and the 1040.

The 1040A is the card form and is the easiest. It may be used if your income was less than $10,000 and consisted of wages shown on a W-2 form and not more than $200 in other wages, dividends or interest, and you do not wish to itemize deductions.

1040W 'Easy'
The 1040W is the "easy to prepare," streamlined form. There is no income limit, but income must be from salary or wages and not more than $200 from dividends and interest.

On the 1040W the taxpayer may itemize deductions and claim "sick pay" exclusion, employees' business expenses, and estimated tax payments.

The regular 1040 form is to be used when the taxpayer's income includes more than $200 of dividends and interest or income from business, farm, pensions, annuities, rents, royalties, sales or exchanges of property.

First Use
It is pointed out that 1040W form, being used for the first time this year, is the proper form for approximately one-half of the persons who used the regular 1040 last year.

Based on the 1959 mailing list, the proper form was mailed to taxpayers and IRS officials say there is usually no necessity for a person who has received a 1040W form to secure a 1040 form.

Jan. 31 is the deadline for filing a final return in lieu of a last-quarter estimate except for farmers who must file by Feb. 15 in lieu of an estimate.

One of 6 U.S. Guidance, Counsel Meets Set Here

One of 6 counseling and guidance training institutes in the nation will begin at the University of Nebraska Monday with teachers attending from a 7-state area.

The 4-month institute, under the direction of Dr. Charles O. Neidt, chairman of the department of educational psychology and measurements, was made possible through a $116,000 National Defense Education grant.

Selection of the 35 teachers from Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas, Wyoming, Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota was made on the basis of high aptitude and the intent to enter the school counseling and guidance field.

The teachers range in age from 22 to 53 with varying degrees of experience, Dr. Neidt said.

strength now to keep the Russians from starting World War III.

New York's Republican Senators Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating defended President Eisenhower's new defense budget in separate television interviews.

"I think the President is a top (defense) authority," Javits said. "He... assures us constantly and in the most considered way that defense is not being sacrificed because of the budget."

Keating said top defense officials had told him "the defense funds in the President's new budget are sufficient to do a good overall defense job."

Mom Jailed

Thomasville, Ga. (AP) — A 45-year-old mother who refused to send her children to school was jailed for contempt of court.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY

Planned Savings Should Be Definite Part Of The Budget

By Merryle S. Rukeyser
It is a shocking emotional experience for a woman who assumes she is a widow suddenly to learn that she is still a wife. This happened to Mrs. Robert V. Spears.

Spears, who recently conceded that she met her husband in a turo-path husband a fortnight earlier many weeks after his reported death in an airplane crash in the Gulf of Mexico.

From the standpoint of dramatizing the universal importance of a practical financial design for living, the first remarks ascribed by an interviewer to the wife—which she subsequently repudiated—are significant. The interviewer quoted the wife as saying, "He told me he wanted security for me and the babies."

Whether factual or fictional, the quotes are an eye-opener to normal persons as to the importance of prudent financial habits.

If for the sake of argument the remark was dreamed up by the interviewer, the quotation, nevertheless, measures the psychological depth of the human need to provide a nest egg for loved ones.

Through careful planning and foresight, the average family head should seek, through the years, to conduct his family budget in such a manner as to avoid the risk of being subject to desperation.

In order to get on the highway to financial independence, the primary decision is to discipline yourself to retain from current income something in the way of financial reserves, or savings. This surplus is what you have to show for your year's exertion.

If at the end of the year, when your taxes, rent, food, and other living expenses have been met, you have nothing left over, you show a loss. That year must be written off as a wasted effort in your campaign to achieve financial independence.

The way to apply management principles to your separation from current income of sums which can be allotted to capital account is to make that transfer first. Those who achieve little or no progress toward economic well-being make the all too human error of making expenditures for current consumption first, hoping that what is left over will be available for savings.

But social pressures, selling techniques, undisciplined appetites, and unplanned contingencies tend to eat away the residual item and the left-over for saving is too often nil.

The best approach is to impose on yourself at the beginning of each pay period a voluntary withholding tax for savings. If this is ten percent or more of the total, earmark it first, and separate it from regular disposable income.

The important principle is to make the process automatic. The great success for many decades of the institution of life insurance is that it provided a systematic discipline for regularly meeting this problem of transferring income to capital account. More recently this principle of instalment saving has been extended to other fields, including the Stock Exchange Monthly Investment Plan, the regular savings plan of mutual funds, and all varieties of "dollar averaging" programs.

After this habit of regular deduction of your own "capital account" as a prior expense from your spendable income, has been developed, the next step is to prevent dissipation of the nest egg through unexpected contingencies.

To the extent that such family catastrophes consist of severe illnesses, you can insure through major medical policies. You can also protect against shorter lapses of good health for yourself and dependents through Blue Cross and Blue Shield.

Unemployment insurance (state-administered) reduces vibration of capital through job vicissitudes, but, of course, does not take care of longer term economic deterioration through loss of personal popularity, as in the case of an actor, novelist, or TV star. But this hazard can be met through a systematic building up of financial reserves.

In every man's financial structure, the reserves accumulate in a variety of ways, such as through an increase in the equity in residential property, an increment in the cash values in life insurance companies, through growing deposits in savings banks and savings and loan associations, through holdings of financial packages of convenience, such as participation in common trust funds or mutual funds, and in a portfolio of stocks and bonds.

A by-product value of a workable life financial plan is that it makes possible a healthy attitude toward economic security. On the other hand, thriftlessness generates abnormal, neurotic fears and marital stresses and strains.

"We can't roll that one any farther. Leave it there and let's start a new one."

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

Princess Margriet, 16-year-old daughter of Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands, was born in Ottawa, Canada, during World War II.

Cambridge, Mass., where Harvard University is located, was originally named New Town.

East Berlin and West Berlin have separate laws and separate money. But, they share the same water supply and the same elevated railroad system.

Miami, Fla., was explored in 1587, but little effort was made for a permanent settlement until 1896.

The mines in northern Lapland supply about three-fourths of Sweden's entire iron ore production.

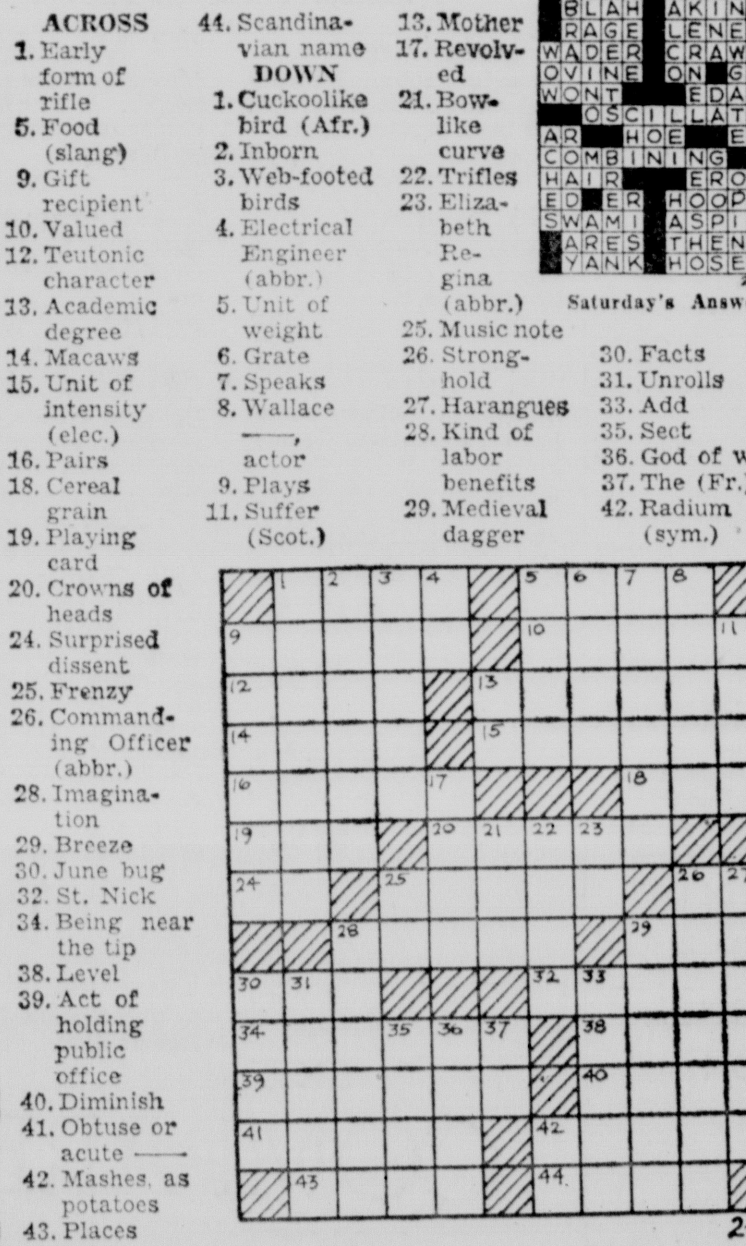

WISHING WELL

By William J. Miller

There is a special little name that will give you a message every time you solve a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. Here's how To Work It
